Notes for GEORGE LANSING WHITLOCK:

I was doing some looking around on the Internet and had searched "Mt. Vernon, IL" because my husband's great-grandfather was a doctor there in the late 1800s and, according to my husband's aunt, a picture of great-grandfather still hangs in the hospital he founded. So I wanted to see if I could find the name of the hospital.

Your webpage came up in my search and I recognized the Texico, IL, as the address on a rubber address stamp that I have for my husband's grandfather. I think I can provide you with a little information about the ancestry of Robert "Brook" Whitlock.

In a family history booklet written by my husband's aunt, Neola Whitlock Marietta of Kalamazoo, MI, she writes:

Robert Randolph Whitlock was born in Virginia on July 1, 1813. His father, Thomas Wellington Whitlock, moved his family from Virginia to Wilson County, Tennessee in 1826 where they lived until 1844. In that year they moved to Jefferson County Illinois where he died in 1856.

George Lansing Whitlock, the first child of Robert Randolph and Fanny Whitlock, was born in Wilson County Tennessee on December 6, 1824. (1834?) The family later moved to Todd County Kentucky where George grew to manhood. George married Margaret Frances Patten on October 23, 1855, in Montgomery County Kentucky. Margaret was the daughter of William and Sarah Patten and was born in Adair County Kentucky on February 25, 1834.

George brought his bride to Jefferson County Illinois where they lived the rest of their lives. They had 10 children, all born in Jefferson County. They were Robert Brooklyn, called Brook, Eldora Jane, known as Doad or Dora, John Thomas, who was our grandfather, Ella Doke, known as Doke, George Elmer, called Elmer, Sara Annette, known as Nette or Nettie, William Profit, known as Buck, Alta Adele, called Alta, Margaret Malone, known as Maggie, and Jesse Lee, called Jess. Notes for CASEY REDBURN:

Wednesday, May 13, 1998

Dear Tom:

I contacted you once before regrading your Hawkins line, but no connection. I may have a connection with you and the Whitlock surname. Here it goes.

My ggggrandmother may have been Mary M. Whitlock of IL. She married Casey Redburn, had a son named Wilson Lafayette Redburn, DOB 10/3/1858, Jefferson County, IL. Wilson married Mary Jane Linder(1) who had one daughter, Mary L. Redburn. The mother, Mary Jane Linder Redburn, died 8 days later in 1979.

Wilson then married (2) to Charlotte (or Charity) P. Litrel in 1880 and had a daughter named Zuella E. Redburn who is my ggrandmother.

Zuella Redburn married Johnny Clyde Linder (whose mother was also a Whitlock). So I have two Whitlocks in my family. John (my grandmother insisted her dad's name was Johnny) Clyde was born in 1877 in Washington County, IL.

John Clyde Linder's father was John Linder, and his mother was an unknown Whitlock. These names are on his marriage application with his and Zuella's original signatures. They were married in Jefferson County, IL.

Wilson died in Jacksonville, Morgan County, IL and buried in Dodge Grove Cemetery in Mattoon, Coles County, IL.

What do you think? Possibly a connection? Please let me know.

Thanks,

Diana Cruthird

CLARK August 1894 in Jefferson Co, IL, daughter of JOSEPH CLARK and SARAH SMITH. She was born 1868 in Jefferson Co, IL.

Notes for DR. JOHN THOMAS WHITLOCK:

The Whitlocks were a substantial old Virginia family that sent out its sons to enrich various states of the West and thus left a good record wherever they settled. R. R. Whitlock, when a young man, left the Old Dominion to try his fortunes in Tennessee, but eventually went to Kentucky and finally pushed on to the promising younger commonwealth of Illinois.

He arrived about 1856 and established a home in Field township Jefferson county. where he ended his earthly career in 1874. For many years he held a position in the post-office department at Memphis, Tennessee, but was compelled to give this up on account of his health. He served as captain of a company during the Civil war and contributed five sons to the service of his country' during that great conflict.

His son, George L. Whitlock, who was born in Tennessee, spent some time in Kentucky, but found his way to Illinois in 1854, settling first in Marion county for a year and then removed to Jefferson county. He finally secured a farm in Field township and in this place he has been living since 1861. He enlisted in the Eightieth Regiment Illinois Cavalry and served honorably with that command during the Civil war. He married Margaret F. Patton, a native of Kentucky while he was a resident of the state, and his bride came with him to the Prairie state, where their fortunes have been closely linked together for over sixty years.

They have had ten children namely: Robert B., who died in 1904; Mrs. Lldora J. Frost, of Field township; John T. the subject of this sketch; Mrs. Doke Leuty, of Farrington township; George E., a resident of Mount Vernon; Mrs. Sarah A. Holtzclaw, of Shiloh township; William P., of Field township; Mrs. Alta Carpenter, of Johnson City, Illinois; Mrs. Maggie Brown, of Field township, and Jessie B., also of Field township. Most of these children lived in Jefferson county and nearly all on farms adjoining that of their father.

John T. Whitlock was born near Dix, Jefferson County, Illinois, November 15, 1860. After finishing his studies in the local schools, he spent nearly five years at Ewing College in Franklin County. From there he went to Shurtleff College at Upper Alton, taking the literary course and graduating in the class of 1887. After teaching a year in the Spring Garden high school, he began the study of medicine, later entered the Missouri Medical College at St. Louis, and obtained his degree in 1890. He opened an office at Dix and carried on a successful practice there for twelve years, meantime taking a post-graduate course at the Chicago Polyclinic College. After his location at Mount Vernon, he took a post-graduate course in the New York Polyclinic and altogether obtained a thorough and up-to-date medical education.

A short time after coming to the county seat he opened the Mount Vernon Hospital in connection with other physicians, but these he subsequently bought out and was sole manager for about three years and a half. Eventually he disposed of his interests and severed his connection with the institution and since then has devoted his entire time to his large general practice. Doctor Whitlock is a member of the Illinois State, Southern Illinois and Jefferson County Medical Societies and president of the last named. He is director of the Ham National Bank and owns a large farm in Dodds township, besides a cozy residence and office at 812 Main street. He has served four years as Coroner and was elected as a candidate of the Republican party. His fraternal connections are with the Knights of Pythias, Modern Woodmen and Ben Hur.

Doctor Whitlock has been twice married, first in December, 1884, to Mary Billingsley, a Kentucky lady, resident for some years at Ewing, Illinois. She died in March, 1886, leaving one son, John Kelley Whitlock, six days old at the time of his mother's death, and now a farmer in Field township. In August, 1894, Doctor

Whitlock married Cora Clark, a native of Jefferson county.

He stands high both in his profession and as a good, all-round citizen, reliable, enterprising and public-spirited. His great-grandfather was Thomas Whitlock, who came to Illinois at a very early day, settling at Dix, in Jefferson county, where he kept tavern on the old Vandalia and St. Louis stage line. The family is perhaps the oldest in Jefferson county, as it has been represented here by six generations. The Whitlocks have been potential factors in the development and growing of this fine agricultural section.
